Burnside Appears Cable Repaired

The cable ship, U. S. Burnside, appeared from the south Monday and commenced working her way towards Petersburg.

The cable has been out of commission one month. During that time a Democratic President, the first in sixteen years, was elected. Alaska has had its first legislature elected, eight world's series games were played, Jack Johnson was arrested and the Canadian wireless boosted its prices. Still we will be thankful by the 28th.

Turkey's Days Are Numbered

On November 8, President Taft issued the annual proclamation to the people of the United States declaring Thursday, November 28 Thanksgiving Day.

Fire and Fire Alarm.

The Alert Fire Company responded to two alarms during the cold snap of the past week one which proved to be a fire and one a false alarm. The fire was located at the Star house near the Light plant and was quickly quenched by a stream from the hydrant at the light plant corner.

Several new helmets and rubber coats have been ordered by President Schnabel and Chief Grant. They should be received soon and will be appreciated during the winter months if the laddies are obliged to use much water.

"Iron Jinks" Is Latest

Those who have thought that Captain Jinks was the last word in wood-sawing have another think coming. Fred Wigg received on the Jefferson a gasoline drag-saw outfit which he will use for bucking up wood for household use.

Fell Overboard From Mail Boat.

Oscar Johnson, of Fish Egg, who took passage on the Ucle last Thursday evening was lost overboard from the boat Friday Morning sometime between 3:30 and 6 A. M. while the boat was running between Port Protection & Shakan Straits. When last seen, Johnson was asleep in his berth and his absence was not discovered until early morning.

Fix Tax Rate For 1912 New Reservoir Planned

At a meeting of the Common Council Monday evening, Nov. 4, the municipal tax rate to be levied this year was fixed at one and one half per cent, the same rate as levied last year.

During the Discussion relative to the settlement of the tax levy, a report by the Town Treasurer and letter to the Council was read by President Emery at the regular meeting Thursday. The letter, touching upon the work of the Council during the past six months and outline of future work, appears in another column. The Treasurers statement is as follows:

The Senator's Wife (in Washington)
—You are sure they are nice people, Augusta? The Senator's Daughter—
Yes, mamma. Their father is owned by the same trust that owns papa—
Puck.

May Be Starving.

Considerable uneasiness is felt here for the safety of "Capt. Kidd" a well-known Wrangell character, who with his daughter, went up the Stikine to the Hot Springs some six weeks ago and who have not been heard from since. From all information gathered they must have been out of provisions for a week. Deputy Marshal, Schnabel made an attempt to get up the river Saturday on the Black Fox but the slush ice was running too strong and the party was obliged to turn back. Efforts are being made to have Chief Shakes and some of his braves attempt a passage up the river with provisions for the Hot Springs campers.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Notice is hereby given that the Municipal Tax Roll, of the Town of Wrangell, Alaska, for the year 1912, is now in my possession and that the said tax is now due.

The said taxes may be paid, and the amounts due will be received at my office in the "Matheson Store Building" Front Street, Wrangell, Alaska, on and after the date of this notice.

All Municipal Taxes for the year 1912, become delinquent on the 23d day of December of said year and thereafter an additional five per cent will be added to the said delinquent list.

Given under my hand and seal this 11th day of November, 1912.

STOPPING THE RUNAWAY.

Electrical Device Used on a New York Bridge to Check Horses.

On one of New York's big bridges where runaways are of frequent occurrence has been installed a gate that makes the halting of a runaway horse a mere act of mechanical effort.

Installed about two years ago on the south roadway of the Williamsburg bridge over the East river this "runaway gate" has stopped almost one hundred runaways, in none of which were the animals seriously injured. The record is in striking contrast with that of the gate which was displaced. The old gate was simply a barrier across the roadway, into which the horse crashed at full speed. It was effective in stopping runaways, ending lives and destroying property. Of the forty-two runaways on the Williamsburg bridge during the last year of the operation of the old gates thirty were stopped by this barrier, and of these thirty, seven of the horses were killed instantly, while thirteen were badly injured.

In merciful contrast the practice is now entirely different. Whereas formerly the barrier was immovable, the new gate, which is in two parts, forms a V shaped chute, forty-eight feet in length, whose mouth is as wide as the roadway. An aperture is at the apex. The terrified horse dashes into the chute and makes for the small opening, but long before he reaches it he finds himself frantically pawing the air, while unyielding force holds him in check.

What has happened? Simply this: The narrowing sides of the chute had gripped the wagon at the front hubs and brought it to a stop long before the horse reached the point where he came in contact with the timbers. All the checking power had been applied from the rear, and the animal found himself shouldered with a burden he could not move. It was a simple operation, and the horse escaped with barely a scratch.

Reaching far out on the big span is a series of push buttons, and near each of these a bridge policeman has his post. When a runaway starts the officer pushes a button which transmits the signal to the policeman at the runaway gate. Warned of the oncoming danger, the bluecoat makes ready, and as the animal passes a certain point he throws over his electric controller, and slowly the big gates swing into position. A seven and one-half horsepower electric motor, operating a worm gear and rack and pinion, to which is attached a steel arm, pushes each of the gates into position, where they are held immovable until the officer is ready to open them.—Edison's Monthly.

Measuring Water Flow.

"Second foot," as defined by the United States geological survey, is an abbreviation for cubic foot per second and is the unit for the rate of discharge of water flowing in a stream one foot wide, one foot deep at a rate of one foot per second. It is generally used as a fundamental unit in measurements of stream flow.

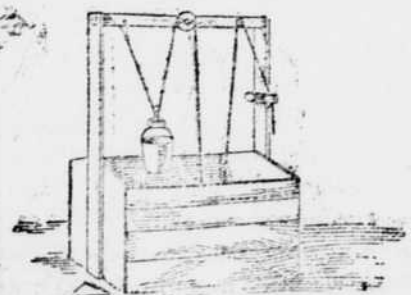

"Second feet per square mile" is the average number of cubic feet of water flowing per second from each square mile of area drained, on the assumption that the runoff is distributed uniformly both as regards time and area.

An "acre foot" is equivalent to 43,560 cubic feet and is the quantity required to cover an acre to the depth of one foot. The term is commonly used in connection with storage for irrigation work.

One second foot flow equals 7.48 United States gallons a second, 448.8 gallons a minute, or 646,317 gallons a day. As a California "miner's inch" equals 0.187 gallon a second, there are forty California miner's inches in one second foot.

Device For Drawing Water.

The illustration shows a good rig for drawing water from a well. While the full bucket is being raised the empty one goes down. In this manner nothing but the water is lifted, as each bucket counterbalances the other. A swivel should be put in the end of the rope to keep it from twisting. The cleat is used to take up or let out the rope as the water rises or lowers in the well.

RIG FOR AN OPEN WELL.

Getting Even.

Mrs. Blumer: We must have the dolls to dinner. We owe them one.

Blumer: Of course. We passed an awful dull evening there, and it is nothing more than right that they should pass one here.—Brooklyn Life.

Inquiries For Missing

The Governor's Office is in receipt of inquiries for the following missing men:

G. L. Musselman, left Seattle about nine years ago for Klondike region and not heard from since. Was about 16 years of age. Brother wishes to communicate with him.

He Was Enlightened.

We don't approve of the impertinence, but perhaps in the following case the grouchy street car passenger got no more than he deserved. He had asked a conductor if he knew when a certain train left the North station, and on being answered in the negative he exclaimed offensively, "Why is it that this road employs so many farmers?" "Just to look after the cattle that travel on the cars," was the conductor's quick retort.—Boston Transcript.

Mayor's Letter to Council

To the Members of the Common Council of the Town of Wrangell, Gentlemen:

In accordance with the provisions of the ordinance I take this to me seeming favorable opportunity to submit my first letter, in it to review the work done by us since assuming charge of the affairs of the Town, to suggest what appears to me needed measures for the betterment of existing defects in government and to strive to stimulate a more personal zealousness in each and every one to the end that we may collectively as a body, give a fitting account of our stewardship when called upon to do so.

It is now six months since this Council as a body qualified to conduct the business of the municipality. The outgoing Treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $1351.40. Since that time up to the present date there has been collected and paid in to the Town Treasurer from various sources, sums aggregating $6212.23. The School Board has been paid out of their share of the Federal Monies, $1,000.00 leaving a balance still to accrue to them of probably between two and three thousand.

In the short space of six months, this body has been called upon or petitioned to build or have built, an unprecedented number of streets, viz. Fort St., Church St., Lynch St., Grief St., Wilson St., and Reid St., and with the above a considerable amount of repair work representing some 2500 or 3000 ft of new walk at a cost of approximately $2000.00. The McCormack St. work done by last Council was paid for by the present Council.

Six hundred feet of pipe line has been laid under the supervision of the Water Committee furnishing water to the sanitary Packing Company and other such work on a smaller scale has been effectively carried out by this committee.

The addition to the school house of another room has been effected under the wise and careful supervision of the Building Committee, which while severely criticized in some quarters, has accomplished its work with an attention to detail and a recognition of the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number in a manner deserving of a high mode of praise.

The cost of this work as appears in the subjoined statement of the (Continued on last page.)

Treasurer, was $1464.65.

Notwithstanding street work still to be paid for, amounting to $750, a probable balance to School Fund of two or three thousand dollars and current expenses to the expiration of the term, a comfortable balance remains.

The question of the Tax Levy has been settled. I was in favor of a 1-2 per cent raise. I think, as has been stated heretofore, that the time is fast approaching. I might also say is upon us, when such a raise will be necessary and with so many irons in the fire as is the case at present, peculiarly practicable. There is that parasitical water pipe rental involving a 10 per cent rate of interest, which good business sagacity should demand abolished before negotiating further burdens, and, it is argued better pay that interest and let some future Council worry about effacing the principal. Be this as it may there are a number of projects all vitally affecting directly or indirectly the Town's interests, confronting us at present, viz. the need of a new and larger reservoir insuring an increased water supply, improved heating facilities for the school, a better system of lighting for our streets and other improvements of a more or less incidental character. The old reservoir will always be a burden of expense primarily because of its faulty site, and even though it were put in shape to maintain its capacity of water, that would not be sufficient for present needs and emergencies. Undoubtedly as all the projects cannot be carried out owing to lack of funds, the most important of them which is unquestionably a more capacious reservoir, should be accorded our first and earliest consideration. The Water Committee has been instructed to make a report, on most favorable site, probable cost etc. to be tempered by suggestions from an expert in such matters, at an early date and when such data is in our hands we should be in a position to take some definite action. Our streets need better lighting and the Street Committee should strive to obtain by conference with lighting plant, better facilities in the way of light for our thoroughfares. One good light of sufficient power on a street or stretch of street is better than three or four of an inferior quality.

Now that we have revived an interest in the abating of the nuisance caused by animals roaming at large upon our thoroughfares, it should be our determined and persistent duty to back up our Marshall in any and all of his efforts to keep the streets clean and free from all wandering or vicious quadrupeds which are a menace to our walks and to those who use them.

Thanking you for your indulgence during the reading of this rather lengthy letter and for the courtesy and consideration you have shown me in our relations in a position new to me and in which, for this very fact I feel I need every assistance you can give, to enable me to do my duty as I see it, to the Town, to you and to myself, I beg to remain,

Cordially and Sincerely yours,
Chas. A. Emery

Chewing.

Ever been a-swimming when the fellows took and tied
Your duds in one mixed mess of knots
And hollered when you tried
To get the things untangled? You'd be at it tooth and nail,
Chewing at the knots, when all the gang would start to rail
(And it rubbed you on the raw):
"Chicky, chicky, chaw your beef!
Beef—wuz—tough!
Couldn't—git—enough!
Chaw! Chaw! Chaw!"

Reckon that's as good advice as any ever got—
Good, I guess, for any mess that life itself can knot.
Take the trouble dealt you. Let gawks gape or jeer.
Strain your soul to set your teeth and chew that tangle clear.
Ay, at it claw and jaw.
"Chicky, chicky, chaw your beef!
Beef—wuz—tough!
Couldn't—git—enough!
Chaw! Chaw! Chaw!"

—Puck.

The Royal Box.

The present king of Spain, Alfonso XIII., was born after his father's death. The czar is insured in an English company for nearly $5,000,000. The insurance was taken out when he was a boy, and the annual premium of $80,000 has been paid regularly ever since.

Queen Alexandra and Queen Mary of England are said to be rivals for supremacy, but it is pretty generally conceded that Queen Alexandra has the sympathies of the people, who are much fonder of her than of the colder and more conservative Queen Mary.

Bumper Crops.

Even the crop reports have gone in for aerobatics.—Washington Post.

"Biggest apple crop reported in years," is good news, but that they are to be cheaper would be better still.—New York American.

The consumer is cheered by the news of a bumper potato crop. But when he looks for lower prices he may hear that farmers are offered so little for their potatoes that they prefer to let them rot rather than gather them.—New York World.

Electric Street Cleaners.

The storage battery street washing machine of Berlin and other German cities is of three and a half tons, carrying forty cells, to yield 200 amperes hours at the five hour discharge rate. It also has a tank of water, brushes and rotating scrapers. It travels four, six or nine miles an hour, and each of Berlin's twenty-four machines covers eighteen to twenty-five miles a day—at a material saving over horsepower cleaning.
